Atâtôt – UEG Interdisciplinary Journal of Human Rights is a biannual academic publication run by the State University of Goiás. Its objective is to open interdisciplinary spaces for the publication of articles, essays, reviews and other academic texts on the general theme of human rights, with a focus on themes related to democracy, constitutional issues and social struggles for rights.

In its December 2022 edition, Atâtôt – UEG Interdisciplinary Journal of Human Rights provides discussions on human rights in a critical perspective, bringing views on the psychology of intentionality, prison and gender, crime and religious freedom, rescission action and tributes, Chilean constitutionalism, and reports of extension experiences.

The first article, “Mind and Intentionality in Brentano's Philosophy: Study on the nature of the mind and the issue of mental intentionality in Franz Brentano's philosophy and its importance for psychology and philosophy”, by Antonio Sólon Rudá, reflects on some aspects of the life and work of the German philosopher Franz Brentano in order to analyze psychology as a science of the mind, the physical and mental phenomena and their criteria of distinction, as well as the Bretranian concept of intentionality.

The second article, “Women in Prison: Challenges in the Implementation of Fundamental Rights in the Light of Bangkok Rules”, by Vivian Breus Drzewinski, analyzes the inadequacy of penitentiaries in relation to the female public, highlighting the need to seek alternatives to guarantee the rights rights of women in the prison system.

The third article, “Crime against Religious Freedom: Religious Racism”, by Marta de Paiva Macêdo, Aritha Souza da Silva, Consuelo Xavier de Vasconcelos Miranda and Thaynara Cristina Ribeiro e Silva, results from the Supervised Practical Activities – APS, in the Undergraduate course in Law from UNIP, which aimed to identify, in a document authored by the Legislative Assembly of the state of Rio de Janeiro – ALERJ, crucial information about the theme of religious racism, in addition to producing legal commentary on the practices reported in that document and the infraction of criminal law, aiming to identify illegal practices committed and the penalties that should be applied.

The fourth article, “Can Rescission Action in Tax Matters Hurt Legal Security?”, by Rebeca de Magalhães Melo and Antônio de Moura Borges, examines rescission action within the scope of Tax law, asking whether the management of this type of action could harm the principle of legal certainty.

The fifth article, “The Symbolism of the Extinction of the Senate in the New Chilean Constitution Project”, by Alexandre Tomaz Vilas Boas Marques Bueno Lopes and Carlos Ugo Santander, addresses the historical, social and legal aspects capable of demonstrating the symbolism in the extinction of the Senate in Chile. reconfiguration of the political system foreseen in the rejected project of the new Chilean constitution, since such document is an inseparable part of the trajectory of the constitutional movement in progress in Chile.

Finally, there is an account of university extension experiences.
